Liberals Hold Meeting at Irvington.

A meeting under the auspices of the Stony Plain Liberal Association was held at Irvington on Thursday last, the 22d, Mr G H Van Allen and G J Bryan being the speakers.

Mr Van Allen dealt with the program of the C.C.F., while Mr Bryan spoke on the record of the present Brownlee Government.

Mr Van Allen traced the development of the C.C.F., and showed how clearly it paralleled the growth of the present Russian experiment. He also pointed out that it could bring no immediate relief; and he showed that, although some of the planks had been adopted years ago by the U.F.A., the present Government had made no attempt to put them into legislation, although it was undoubtedly in their power to do so.

At the meeting H. W. Ball was elected a member of the Executive.

Farewell to the Pitzlers.

Another grand and final farewell party was tendered the members of the two Pitzler families last week, the event taking place on the old homestead, the former residence of E Pitzler. Over 100 of their friends and neighbors were present to pay their respects to the heads of the departing families. Dancing was indulged in, until "the wee, sma' hours." On leaving, each wished the two very popular couples success and happiness in their new homes on the Coast.

The Pitzlers left on Friday night's C. P. R. train for Calgary, and thence to Vancouver, where the families will board the boat for Tacoma, the other family later going to Victoria.

Another Oldtimer Dies.

A former resident of this district, Jacob Sonheim, passed away last week in Edmonton, in his 71st year. Deceased came to Canada in 1887, lived in Winnipeg for 2 years, moving to the Stony Plain district in 1889. He took up a home stead a few miles east of the present town of Stony Plain. He gave up farming and moved to the City in the year 1912, where he continued to be employed up to a short time previous to his death.

The funeral was held in the City on Saturday.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, 5 daughters and 5 sons.

Given Three Months.

On Saturday last young Mike Pasemko was brought up on three charges of thefts of traps before Magistrate McCulla.

Mr Bryan appeared for the accused, at the request of the Dept. of Neglected Children. On the conclusion of the Crown's first case, Mr Bryan refused to appear further in that case, due to the attitude of the accused. The case was proceeded with and accused was convicted and given three months, suspended sentence.

Mr Bryan then took up the defence on the other charges, the first of which was dismissed, and the second was withdrawn by the Crown.

Officer G. R. Bone appeared for the Crown on all three cases.

An Exhibition Of Childhood

London is to witness a most unique exhibition when, on April 19, will open a display of relics of "Children throughout the Ages", acclaimed as the most comprehensive portrayal of child life down the centuries ever presented to the public. The event derives significance as much from the historical value of the various exhibits, as from the purpose to which the proceeds are to be devoted. The beneficiary will be one of London's most deserving charities.

The relics to be displayed link child life with the dim remote ages of the past, the oldest exhibit being a Chinese doll said to date from 600 B.C. From that far distance down the years, the varying fancies of children, the toys which brought them pleasure, the garments they wore, the furniture which decked their nurseries and playrooms, all will be traceable in the array of exhibits from the pre-Christian era down to the end of the reign of Queen Victoria.

Queen Elizabeth's christening robe, her cap and mittens, a portrait of her as a baby (by Holbein), will be on show. A shirt worn by Charles I. as a child of two, his boyhood's brocade coat, will find prominent place in the display beside Oliver Cromwell's christening robe. Here then that historic enmity which ended so tragically for the monarch is made to symbolize the transitory nature of human passions and, transformed, serves the charitable purposes of to-day. Napoleon, too, will be represented, not in a manifestation of childish desire but rather in evidence of that other love which great and lowly have in common, and which is, of course, as old as childhood is. The present given by the Emperor Napoleon to his infant son, the King of Rome, has been obtained as an exhibit.

Perambulators and cradles and such adjuncts of childhood that flourished in the seventeenth century, have been collected to augment the display. Children's furniture from the sixteenth to the nineteenth centuries will be shown, as well as a display of British and foreign children's clothes, hats, shoes and gloves of the same period, early games, cards and jig-saw puzzles, playbooks and lesson books. A series of rooms is being arranged to depict child scenes of bygone days with inevitable wax figures in the Madame Tussaud tradition. There will be portrayed in similar fashion a Kate Greenaway scene, a Victorian Sunday, the ancient nanny and the modern nurse.

The British royal family, as usual where charity is the object, is according wholehearted support to the exhibition. Queen Mary is contributing playthings of her own childhood, and toys which enthralled the young Prince of Wales, his brothers and sisters. Two gold rattles given by Queen Victoria to the Prince of Wales, offered, and considerable interest will attach to an exhibit of the miniature efforts of the Prince and his brother, the Duke of York, as artists. It is said these efforts are just as atrocious in result and effect as any of less exalted youth.

Perhaps one of the most interesting of the relics to be exhibited, however, has no connection whatever with the childhood of the great or the near-great. It is a pewter feeding bottle, believed to date back to about 1750. It was discovered in possession of a farmer who was using it to feed his lambs. Probably no more fitting place could be found for this memento of a bygone period and a long-forgotten childhood than alongside the relics of royal youth and palace playrooms. It is a striking reminder of that strange democracy of the very young, that constant symbol of the "great levellers"—childhood and death—and it is to be hoped that as such, in these transitional days, it will be interpreted by those privileged to patronize the exhibition.

There is a timely moral lesson, too, in the story recently told by one of the better known financial journals. It happened that a shabbily dressed, ostentatiously poor, elderly woman entered the classic portals of a large up-town bank in New York, and told the uniformed guard she desired to open an account. She was shown to the new account department where three officers of the bank were more intent upon the approaching lunch hour than upon new business, particularly business which came in such inauspicious garb. As it happened, lunch won, and the woman was left to the manager.

After stating her mission, the old lady asked to see a statement of the bank's financial position, much to the surprise of the manager who was accustomed to having the institution's financial status taken for granted, particularly by small depositors. However, he presented the requested statement, answered courteously some startlingly intelligent and pertinent questions, which satisfactorily received, brought the intimation the lady wished to open an account. She gave her name and other necessary information, and casually, for he expected a small initial sum, he asked: "How much do you wish to deposit?"

"Thirty-one thousand dollars," replied the old lady, equally casually, as she proceeded to count out the money in bills of various denominations.

Strange Accidents At Sea

Ships' Officers Give Accounts Of Two Unusual Collisions

Recalling strange accidents at sea, officers of the steamer Boegpark, at Saint John, gave first-hand accounts of two unusual collisions.

Chief Engineer David Thomson was with the Volunmia when that ship carried troops across the English Channel in war days. Traveling without lights, troop-carriers proceeded at full speed over courses ordered clear by the admiral. A stocky trawler returning from the banks had not heard the warning and unwittingly crossed the troop-ship's track.

"It was the first time an iron ship was cut in two," said Thomson. "We struck the big trawler broadside, plowed right through the hull and out the other side. From the port I got a fleeting glance of the stern half sinking."

Only five of the crew of 39 were rescued, and one died soon after. "The confused survivors wouldn't believe it. They couldn't understand why we had not foundered also."

Capt. Will Mason told how the steamer Montpark, a famous Q-boat during the war, met a strange end while under his command in 1919. A crash occurred while the Montpark was feeling its way through poor visibility one night a few days out from the Tyne mouth. Capt. Mason saw the bow of another ship protruding into his own, heard terse orders in a foreign language, and watched the unknown vessel back away into the mist.

The Montpark sinking, its crew jumped into the sea. Capt. Mason and a few seamen were rescued, but a life-raft the following evening, but other members of the crew were never found and the ship which left them helpless was never identified.

British Flight Squadron

Suggestion Is Made That A Visit To Canada Should Be Undertaken

A suggestion was made in the British House of Commons that the United Kingdom send to Canada detachments or flights of airplanes to "show the flag" in the Dominion. The planes would be sent aboard a naval aircraft carrier.

Discussion of the proposal arose during the debate on the air estimates when Oliver E. Simmonds, Dudson Conservative and aircraft manufacturer, told the house Canada had never sent an squadron of British planes, although every year squadrons of machines from the United States made exhibition flights to Canadian air pageants.

Mr. Simmonds said he was in Ottawa early this year and heard hope expressed that the Royal Air Force would "show the flag" in Canada. He asked that the air ministry consider the matter.

Sir Philip Sassoon, minister for air, described the suggestion as "very interesting."

Progress For Persia

Mechanization Of Old Handicraft Industries Looks Like Mistake

And now the Shah of Persia has evolved a five-year plan! Progress is to make its debut through the mechanization of the ancient handicraft industries that have created so many delights for collectors. Great carpet and rug factories will rear their looms where patient hands have labored after the traditions and the patterns of the centuries.

Gone will be the features that made oriental-rug collecting a delight to those with incomes permitting it. No longer will variations in color tell of the exhaustion of some native dye mixture, or irregularities in pattern betray the advent of a new native weaver. The innovations that began with aniline dyes and chemical washes will reach their climax in a uniformity that matches the best American "orientals."

Indeed, progress in Persia may mean no progress at all. Who will want a genuine oriental rug if it differs not a whit from the mechanized product of the occident?

While excavating for a new building in Kuatendil, Bulgaria, workmen recently found an aqueduct in which the top-pipe sections could be removed for cleaning.

Passenger Train Pooling

Expected To Effect Big Saving Under Arrangement

The passenger train pooling arranged for in the Montreal-Toronto-Ottawa-Toronto and Montreal-Quebec services, as extended and effective from March 11, will produce a total saving of approximately 1,000,000 train miles per annum, divided about evenly between the C.N.R. and C.P.R. and on the basis of a conservative estimate will represent a saving to each company of approximately $500,000 per annum. This information was given in the House of Commons by Hon. R. J. Manion, minister of railways and canals, based on a telegram from Chairman C. P. Fullerton, of the C.N.R. board of trustees.

New Television Machine

Will Be Ready For Demonstration At Chicago Show

The world's largest television machine, being built at the Horton Steel Works, Fort Erie, N.Y., will be ready for demonstrations at the re-opening of the Century of Progress Exhibition at Chicago on May 1. The builder of the machine, U. A. Sanabria, of Chicago, said the machine would have a 30-foot screen and its transmitter would weigh more than 5,000 pounds. It would have a definition sufficiently large to handle an entire scene at one time.

Has Plan For Laying Foundation Of New Municipalities In The West On A Village System

Nothing the recent proposal of a British settlement company to locate thousands of families on unorganized land in Canada within the next few years, James H. Ramage, farmer at Crestwynd, Sask., outlines a plan for laying the foundation of new municipalities on a village system.

"Under the present arrangement municipal offices, churches, stores, schools and other social conveniences are widely scattered," Mr. Ramage pointed out. "My idea is to have a main street through the centre of every township, extending if necessary for possible throughout the length of the province.

"The advantage is in having such utilities as roads, electric power lines, telephone systems, water works and other public services joined together in the most useful and economical manner," continued Mr. Ramage.

"The main street would do away with the necessity of further expensive railway development, since it would become an all-season transportation artery used by trucks and buses," explained Mr. Ramage. "As the farms are situated now the farmer, in most cases, is several miles from a highway of any kind, and seldom is he on a direct route to his shipping point on the railroad. The highway system is so diversified in direction and development is slow. There are too many roads and not enough good ones."

"The farm houses would all face the 'main street,' it is pointed out. Where about 75 families occupy a settled township there could be 600 or more, Mr. Ramage thinks. Saskatchewan with 3,700 townships might support 3,000 persons per township and have a population of 11,000,000. Alberta, Manitoba, and the Peace River district in the Northwest Territories could support correspondingly large populations, said Mr. Ramage.

The 23,040 acres in a township would be divided up as follows: Forestry work, 150 acres; gardens, 120 acres; buildings, 120 acres; shelter belts of trees, 1,650; farming, 21,000 acres. "This distribution would reduce the wheat acreage as suggested by Premier Bennett and others," said Mr. Ramage.

The Sleighs Of Moscow

Soviets Are Putting Colorful Drivers Out Of Business

Soviet Russia's war on private enterprise is driving the colorful Invostchiks, or sleigh drivers, out of business. This winter only a few are to be found in Moscow, where once they were the popular transportation guides of gay parties who took midnight rides to dances where gypsies played. The gay parties are gone and the sleigh drivers and their horses are pitiful reminders of the olden days. It is planned to replace them with municipal taxis, but so far there are only 500 cabs for the 3,500,000 residents of Moscow, and those who wish to ride must use the crowded street cars.

Collection Has No Equal

Britain Has Specimens Of Every Living Insect On Earth

The building of a permanent home in South Kensington for one of the most precious scientific possessions of the Empire is about to be begun.

The vast unrivalled Entomological Collection of the Natural History Museum is to be housed, after years of exile in alien departments, in a building six floors in height and a hundred and forty feet in length, adjoining the western end of the present Museum block. The final plans for at least one half of this block are about to be completed and confirmed, and work on the erection itself may begin in the new year. The collection has no equal abroad. It is an all but complete catalogue and encyclopaedia of every living insect on the earth and the gaps in its completeness are filled in year by year. Its specimens, in their tens of thousands, are standards from which the insect world is named, and scientists who discover new or puzzling insects in any part of the globe send to the experts in charge for information. One of the most needed benefits of the Entomological Block (which will never be open to the general public) will be the new ease and convenience with which the experts of the Imperial Institute of Entomology will be able to plan their war against our costliest enemies—locusts, flies, caterpillars, and all the insect plagues which eat up the crops and imperil the prosperity of an Empire which glories the world.

Menace Of Low Grade Seed

Growers Taught The Value Of Producing Only High Grade Product
Low grade seed is a menace to the reputation of Canada in the export markets and a drug in the domestic market. The marketing of seeds in general in the last three or four years has been attended by serious difficulties and comparatively low prices to growers, but has at least taught the value of producing a high grade product. No. 1 seed has almost always sold at a profitable price, while low grade seed has been unsaleable or sold at a loss to the grower. It should be the practice of every grower, advises The Agricultural Situation bulletin, to save seed only from clean fields, so that it may be cleaned to grade No. 1.

Demand For Farm Horses

Domestic Wide Interest In The Use Of Horses

The horse breeding industry is making a steady advance. This is particularly true in regard to farm horses, sixteen hundred of which were supplied to the Eastern provinces from the prairies in 1933.

According to the new publication "The Agricultural Situation" just issued by the department of agriculture at Ottawa, greater activity was shown among breeders of purebred draught horses, as the number of registrations of Clydesdales, Percherons and Belgians was almost double that of 1932. With the depletion of grade farm horses a greater demand is said in the pamphlet to be developing for young purebred stock as foundation breeding animals. With the Dominion-wide interest in the use of horses as a factor in successful agriculture in Canada, there is an increasing activity among farmers and breeders, in the production of more and better horses for both farm work and breeding purposes. This situation promises a keener demand and better prices, which is bound to result in a general forward movement in the horse breeding industry.

Going Ahead With Work

Reclamation Project Of Dutch Government Involves Huge Sum

In parliament the minister of waterways announced that the government intended to proceed with the Zuider Zee reclamation scheme, despite the great cost entailed, many millions guilders.

Up to January 1, this year, 200,000,000 guilders had been spent. On the other hand, it is estimated that the reclamation will give work to 3,000 laborers for ten years, which fact alone, in view of the unemployment situation, the government deems sufficient reason for its continuance.

DESIGN FOR PALACE OF THE SOVIETS STOLEN?

While the accusation of William Zorach, American sculptor, that the design for the Palace of the Soviets, to be constructed at Moscow, is an adaptation of a design he entered in a world-wide competition, goes unanswered, plans are being rushed by Soviet authorities to begin work on the gigantic memorial to Nicholas Lenin. The huge building, to face the Red Square, will rise 1,368 feet taller than the Empire State Building in New York. It is in the form of a telescope, each section of which will be surrounded by columns, giving the effect of pyramidal cog wheels. On top of the huge shaft a statue of Lenin will stand in characteristic speaking pose.

A Very Ancient Sport

Ski Matches Were Favorite Sport In Middle Ages

An exhibition of skis in Berlin has shown that skiing is one of the most ancient sports in the world.

Drawings on stones found in Sweden, thought to be of about 3,000 years ago, show skiers in pursuit of reindeer (though chasing reindeer was necessary rather than sport to these early skiers). Some years ago there were found in a peat bog wooden skis from the Stone Age.

In the Middle Ages ski matches were a favorite form of entertainment in Scandinavia. Then skiing dropped out of fashion until nearly the end of the last century. To-day its devotees are numbered by the hundred thousand.

Curing Pork

Important facts to remember in curing pork and other meats are that meats which are allowed to freeze on the surface before the animal has escaped from the interior will not have as pleasant a flavor as they would have if cooled off gradually. Meat ceases to take salt when the temperature falls below 36 degrees Fahrenheit. Dry curing must therefore be carried on in a room, the temperature of which does not long remain below 36 degrees. Women Study Prospecting
Class Conducted At University of Manitoba Is Growing

Ever widening their field of interest and activity, women of Winnipeg have entered the prospecting field. Seven women prospectors in embryo attended the first short course for miners conducted by Dr. G. M. Brownell of the geology department, University of Manitoba, and still more registered for the second session.

The first seven finished the initial lessons and received certificates from the department of mines. At present their knowledge is academic, but there has been some talk of an expedition in the spring for practical work.

One woman prospector is actually doing location work in Manitoba. She is Miss Kathleen Rice, honor graduate of Toronto University, who is located at Herb Lake. Miss Rice is a prospector in the real sense of the word, driving a team of huskies, wearing hob-nailed boots and well equipped to care for herself in the wilderness.

SNOW
(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

Snow, so common in Canada, is seldom found south of 36 deg. north latitude, except in regions modified by high altitude. Snow consists of particles of frozen moisture which result when the air is cooled below the freezing temperature. A cluster of such crystals is called a snowflake. Hull and sheet are raindrops which have been frozen in the journey through the air, but snowflakes are produced when the vapor in the air crystallizes. A snowflake becomes larger in falling through the air because it condenses additional moisture in its descent. They are larger in mild weather than when it is very cold.

Snowflakes assume a great variety of beautiful forms and over a thousand different kinds have been observed. They are seen to the best advantage under the microscope when they are collected on a black surface. The finest forms are found in the polar regions, where the shape is the most common. Some come as hexagonal plates and others as hexagonal prisms.

The "snow line" is the edge of the area of perpetual snow, above which the ground is covered with snow all the time. The latitude regulates the altitude of the snow line. For example in the Himalayas, Lat. 31 deg. N. it is 17,000 feet; in the Rocky Mountains, Lat. 43 deg. N. 12,465 feet; in Norway, Lat. 70 deg. N. 5,490 feet. Generally the snow line is a mountain range which is exposed to the prevalent wind has a lower snow line than the opposite side. In the polar regions the snow line approaches the level of the sea.

Snow is a non-conductor and thus it forms a protective covering for mother earth, keeping the temperature of the ground from dropping to an extent that would destroy seeds and plants. The snow melting on the mountains furnishes water for irrigating and for the supply of the rivers with water in the summer. Glaciers are simply huge masses of ice and snow. The first mention of "red snow" was made by the great writer Aristotle, who discovered deposits of it on high mountain tops. In the Arctic regions it is most abundant and is due to very small vegetable organisms.

Newest Dental Chair

Patient Hears Music And Forgets About Being Afraid

A dental chair which its inventor believes the patient will climb into without dread was demonstrated in connection with the Chicago Dental Society's annual convention.

Dr. Elmer S. Best of Minneapolis said its development was due to experiments which revealed to him that music had powers also to charm away that mental shrinking with which most people regard their session in dentists' chairs.

Applying his idea, he has worked out a plan whereby a wire connection brings music from a cabinet through the dental chair's head piece to amplifiers which press against the patient's mastoid bone. The patient absorbs the music through the bones and the contrivance can be tuned so low that the music is inaudible in the room.

He said children become so completely interested in the music that frequently they have forgotten their teeth were being worked upon.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

APRIL 1
THE RISEN CHRIST

Golden Text: "If then ye were raised together with Christ, seek the things that are above, where Christ is, seated on the right hand of God." Colossians 3:1.

Lesson: John 20:1-16.

Devotional Reading: Ephesians 1:15-23.

Explanations And Comments

Mary Magdalene at the Tomb of Christ, verses 1, 2. On Sunday, the first day of the week, Mary Magdalene came early, while it was still dark, to the tomb where the body of Jesus had been laid on Friday. She is called Magdalene from the village of Magdala, north of Tiberias, which was her home; see Mark 16:9. There were others with her, as the "we" in the next verse indicates, and they had come to embalm the body of Jesus (Mt. 28:1; Mk. 16:1; Lk. 24:1, 10). A stone had been placed over the entrance of the tomb (Mt. 15:46) and sealed (Mt. 27:66). They found the stone removed.

John Reveals Himself to Mary Magdalene, verses 14-16. "John's insight taught him first to conclude that his Lord had risen: Mary's went taught her Lord first to satisfy it," for as she turned she beheld Jesus standing. But she did not recognize him. The symptoms (Lk. 28:1; Mk. 16:12; Lk. 24:16, 37) and John in 21:4 speak of his form as altered; Mary's eyes, moreover, were dim with tears. "Woman, why weepst thou, whom seekest thou?" Jesus questioned.

"They were the first words of the Risen Lord. It is so easy to imagine that the first utterance of the Conqueror of death would have been different—some command or rebuke to his apostles, some great declaration of victory. No; it is an inquiry concerning a woman's sorrow, and a woman's quest. It is as if our Lord was declaring that, his own pain and grief forever past, he still carried more for the griefs and struggles of mankind than anything else." (R. C. Gilie)

"Mary," said Jesus, and "Rabboni," Master, she cried. Rabboni was the Galilean term for Rabbi, teacher. There is much just in a name when pronounced by a person capable of feeling. There may be more expressed in a name than could be expressed in volumes, just as there may be more in a moment than can be expressed in a lifetime. So it was when Jesus called Mary by name, and she called him Master" (Edward Everett Hale, Jr.).

"Touch me not," said Jesus as Mary would have grasped his feet in adoration. "The words were spoken to teach Mary that there was a far higher way of touching Christ than with the hither side of the truer way to lay hold of Christ was by the grasp of faith" (Augustine). "For I am not yet ascended unto the Father," he said. The old, familiar fellowship was not to be renewed, only after his ascension a new and spiritual communion would be established between him and his followers. "But go"—you have gazed long enough at the empty tomb—"go and make known the wonderful fact that its Occupant has risen."

Proves The Workmanship

Three Men Can Lift Perfectly Balanced Bridge Span

There is another example of the excellence of British bridge building in Middlesbrough, in the north of England. This is a link in the new road between Yorkshire and Durham. It crosses the river Tees and has to allow large ships to pass up to Stockton. So the bridge span has to be 120 feet above the water level when fully raised. It is the lifting of this span that proves the workmanship, for it weighs 2,600 tons. At a test the balance proved so perfect that three men working by hand-power on ordinary hand-pulleys lifted this centre span to the top of the towers easily. Of course, the process of raising the span is to be achieved by electrical machinery, the manual labor is only an emergency measure, as a motor engine also can lift the 2,600 tons of steel.

Weight Of Million In Gold

The weight of a million dollars in gold would depend upon the fineness of the gold and whether it were in form of gold coin or new gold. A million dollars in United States gold coins would weigh 53,900 ounces, as there are 25.8 grains of nine-tenths fine gold to the dollar. At the present R.F.C. gold price it takes about 28,000 ounces of newly mined gold to be worth a million dollars.

What Motorists Pay In Taxes

Automobilists Contribute More Than 27 Per Cent. To Revenue

More than 27 per cent. of the total revenues collected by the governments of the different provinces of Canada is contributed by owners of automobiles in the form of taxes on gasoline and license fees. This information is disclosed in a report just issued by the Canadian government bureau of statistics.

The report states that the total amount paid by automobile owners to the provincial treasuries in the fiscal year 1932-33 was $45,480,458, of which gasoline taxes accounted for $24,948,280 and $20,531,173 was in license fees.

In the province of Ontario 35.9 per cent. of the total government revenue is paid by motorists; in Quebec, 32 per cent.; in Nova Scotia, 27.2 per cent.; in New Brunswick, 27.3 per cent.; in Alberta, 24.1 per cent.; in Prince Edward Island, 22.7 per cent.; in Saskatchewan, 19.8 per cent.; in British Columbia, 17 per cent. and in Manitoba, 15.45 per cent.

Economic Survey Of Land

Saskatchewan To Take Inventory Of All Land Resources

Plans for the conduct of a land economic survey to accumulate facts upon which to base future agricultural development of Saskatchewan was announced by Hon. J. F. Bryant, K.C., minister of public works. "We propose taking an inventory," he said, "of all land resources as a basis of land use, in order to indicate the crop areas and their limits, and to classify soils on the basis of their agricultural value."

Occupied farm lands which are used for purposes for which they are not physically or economically adapted, and are no longer capable of yielding a reasonable return, he said, must be classified and used for the purpose for which they are best adapted, according to a carefully planned programme of land utilization.

"I have heard of only one man who was not spoiled by being lionized," remarked a wit.

"And who was he?" asked the "goat."

"The Prophet Daniel, sir," was the response.

NATIONAL CATTLE MARKETING PLAN IS ADVOCATED

Ottawa.—A national cattle marketing scheme was urged before the Stevens committee of the House of Commons by a veteran rancher of the west, Roderick Mackay of High River, Alta. To assist the cattle industry he suggested lowered freight rates on export shipments, encouragement of the United Kingdom market and, if necessary, government-imposed minimum prices for livestock.

It was livestock before the committee, three members of the Ontario legislature, J. E. Jamieson, Howard Fraleigh and John A. Craig, presenting facts and opinions gathered in connection with operations of the Toronto stockyards.

It was charged there was no competitive bidding for stockyards and that 90 per cent of Ontario farmers would favor Dominion-operation of the yards.

Drovers, they said, were afraid to make open charges "for fear their heads will fall off."

Ontario farmers would favor changes in hog-grading regulations, the federal committee was assured, especially so as to permit segregation of the grades in the yard and open bidding. And farmers would favor also restraining packing plants from buying direct from producers and staying away from the stockyards until they saw what their requirements would be.

George H. Barr of Regina, representing the Saskatchewan livestock producers, was a brief witness. He said exchange fluctuations were the bane of western exporters, suggesting stabilization by agreement of all Empire currencies apart from gold backing and other external factors. If Canada could not secure Empire co-operation, it could fall back on a stabilization fund of its own, reimbursing exporters for the adverse rates.

Return To China

Aged Chinamen, Hit By Depression, Return To Canton

Canton, China.—Thousands of aged Chinese arriving at Canton from North America and other foreign ports are being given free transportation on to their native villages "so that they may die at their old homes," according to a statement from the Overseas Chinese Relief Bureau.

The latest official figures gave more than 13,000,000 Chinese living abroad, but within the last year thousands of them have returned to Canton because the world-wide depression robbed them of their jobs or cost them the loss of a lifetime of savings. Most of the returned emigrants have been away from 40 to 50 years and are penniless.

Racial Problem In Washington

Negroes Are Barred From House Restaurant By Manager

Washington.—The negro racial problem in the United States, always forming a dark and thunderous background to immediate economic troubles, has pushed forward again right in the United States capital. A big row is stewing up over refusal of F. Johnson, a former North Carolina state senator, who is now manager of the house restaurant, to permit serving of negroes who have attempted to patronize the place where representatives and their friends eat.

Code To Govern Industry

Kitchener, Ont.—A code to govern the furniture industry has been drawn up by more than 200 striking plant workers here, and will be forwarded to the mass buying probe instituted by Hon. H. H. Stevens, minister of trade and commerce at Ottawa. The strike leaders claimed they had as much right as employers or government officials to "prescribe for unfair labor."

Conflagration In Japan

150,000 Persons Reported To Have Been Made Homeless

Tokyo.—At least 1,000 persons were known to have been killed in a fire which devoured three-fourths of the city of Hakodate, largest community in Japan north of Tokyo. Twenty-five thousand buildings were destroyed and 150,000 persons were made homeless, according to figures in a message received by the minister of communications from the Hakodate wireless station on the outskirts of the ruined city.

The fire rode an equinoctial gale which whipped it into a night-long fury. The city was still burning at the sunrise hour, although the gale was reported abating.

Chimneys toppled by violent winds set fire to roofs, causing the general conflagration, reports said. Nearby suburbs also caught fire.

The Japanese army, navy and other government agencies were hastening to the scene to conduct relief work.

Electric plants were destroyed soon after the fire broke out and the city was thrown into darkness except for the lurid light of the flames.

One dispatch said the city was a "living hell" and declared that "through the darkness the refugees were fleeing from death and were abandoning even the small bundles of possessions they carried from their homes."

Russia May Join League

Report Necessary Action To Be Taken In September

Paris.—It was learned in usually reliable circles that Soviet Russia has about decided to enter the League of Nations and may take the necessary action to do so at the September assembly.

It was said in diplomatic circles that soundings taken by Moscow leaders had convinced them that entry into the league would not only be welcome but that a seat on the league council was assured.

A final decision was said to be expected shortly since the necessary preliminary negotiations were likely to be completed.

The Soviets must be officially recognized by such league members as Holland, Denmark, Finland and others with whom she has at present no diplomatic relations.

Ovation To Prince

Hail To Throne Sees Soccer Game At Wembley

London.—The Prince of Wales flew from Sandringham to see a "cup final" of a new kind at Wembley stadium, where the classic soccer cup match will be played April 28.

It was the final of the London Occupational Soccer League tourney, the teams in which were drawn from the workmen of various metropolitan districts.

Five thousand spectators, mostly unemployed like the players, gave an ovation to the prince, who shook hands with the players on both Greenwich and Walthamstow teams and chatted with several of them.

Has Faith In West

Toronto.—"I never had more faith in western and northern Canada, and I firmly believe that the future of Canada lies there," declared Rev. W. G. Brown, of Saskatoon, former moderator of the Presbyterian church, in an address on Western Canada at the general board of missions.

Favors Titles It Earned

Ottawa.—"I will always be a plebian myself, but I am in favor of titles for Canadians, if they are restricted to those who really earn them," E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, observed in an interview here. Mr. Beatty made it plain, however, he is opposed to hereditary titles here.

Mounties Hold Island

Ottawa.—Two members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police are stationed on Ellesmere Island for the sole purpose of retaining possession of that place for the British crown. Hon. Hugh Guthrie, minister of justice, told W. T. Lucas (U.F.A., Camrose) in the House of Commons.

REFUGEE FROM VIENNA

Widen Liquor Act

For Freer Sale Of Beer And Wine In Ontario

Toronto.—The Ontario government moved to provide for freer sale of beer and wine in the province. In the dying moments of a dreary session the government surprised the legislature into frenzied applause with presentation of the long-waited and much discussed bill.

The measure provides:

1. Sale of beer and wine with meals in dining rooms in standard hotels and such other places, which would include restaurants and clubs, as the board may decide.
2. Sale of beer by the glass in refreshment rooms in standard hotels, and in Veterans' and labor union clubs.
3. Full control will be maintained by the liquor control board.
4. The board may dispense with the present permit system.
5. The board may permit advertising in newspapers and by radio.
6. The board may grant permits for the consumption of beer and wine at banquets.

Favors National Bank

Resolution Will Be Considered By B.C. Legislature

Victoria.—The British Columbia legislature will consider a resolution which would, if passed, place it on record as favoring a national banking system for the purpose of making national, provincial and municipal credit available for governmental expenditure.

The public accounts committee adopted a resolution to this effect. The matter was brought up by G. G. McGeer, K.C. (Lib., Vancouver-Burrard). Private financing would not be affected.

Bombing In Berlin

Explosion Wrecks Taxi Of Jewish Owner Of Motion Picture Theatre

Berlin.—A tin can filled with high explosives was hurled on the famous Unter Den Linden and wrecked a taxi containing David Oliver, Jewish owner of a motion picture theatre.

First reports which raced through Berlin that the bombing was an attempt to assassinate Hermann Wilhelm Goering, premier of Prussia and close associate of "Chancellor Hitler," were denied. Evidence indicated it was a plot against the life of Oliver.

The automobile was wrecked, near the intersection of the avenue with the Wilhelmstrasse, and Oliver's chauffeur was seriously injured.

Members of the family of the theatre owner, a native of Austria but for 35 years a resident of Berlin, refused to discuss the affair. He was "at home," it was said.

It was at his theatre recently that anti-Jewish demonstrations resulted in the banning of the film, "Catherine The Great," featuring Elizabeth Borgner, a Jewess.

Rumors that Goering had been seen to drive past the corner shortly before the explosion lent color to the story that he was the intended victim, but these met a vigorous denial from police.

The premier, they said, was attending the ceremonies opening a ship lock at Niederfarn at the time. Police offered 5,000 marks (about $1,985) reward for information to clear up the mysterious explosion.

Could Render Good Service

Senate Well Fitted To Carry On Inquiries, States Buchanan

Ottawa.—The senate could render good service by carrying on inquiries, Senator W. A. Buchanan told the upper house in continuing the debate on the suggestion that more legislation be initiated there. Inquiries should be held into unemployment and immigration. No legislative body in Canada had the experience of the senate and was, therefore, fitted for such work.

Senator Buchanan described the contribution the senate had made to the pockets of the farmers of Western Canada by safeguarding rates on flour and wheat in the Crow's Nest Pass agreement. A frequent criticism of the senate was that it was made up of reactionaries. If this were true the senate would have taken the part of the railways in 1919, but did not and saved the preferential rates for western farmers.

When the Klondike railway proposal was rejected by the senate, the late Sir Clifford Sifton had said he would not rest public opinion on any measure rejected by the senate.

May Cut Interest On Loans

Toronto.—The Globe said in a despatch from its Ottawa correspondent that considerable progress was evident in the government proposal to obtain agreement from loan companies for reduction of interest rates on loans to farmers.

STATE CONTROL OF RADIO STILL IN THE FUTURE

Ottawa.—Complete nationalization of radio broadcasting was still in the distant future and taking over by the Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission of the 60-odd privately-owned stations remained only a "pious hope," Hector Charlesworth, chairman of the commission, told the radio commission of the House of Commons.

In the meantime, so that those in isolated districts may not be deprived of good radio, new licenses for privately-owned stations have been granted.

Financial stringency had prevented full development of radio along the lines laid down by the legislation of 1932, Mr. Charlesworth said, but a vast improvement had been made and further development would result as revenues permitted.

To W. A. Beynon (Conservative, Moose Jaw), who asked if it were true that a Regina station had been ordered to spend $18,000 to put the plant in order, or close up, Mr. Charlesworth said that was not quite the proper picture.

The station had been advised of certain improvements necessary and he expected the owners would be glad to make them.

Mr. Charlesworth corrected a statement he made on his last appearance respecting the readers of Canadian newspapers.

On that occasion, speaking of news broadcasts, Mr. Charlesworth was quoted as saying 80 per cent of the people of Canada never saw a daily paper.

"Apparently that was what I said, but it was certainly not what I intended to say," Mr. Charlesworth declared. "What I meant was that 80 per cent of the people did not see an afternoon paper until after the evening news broadcast."

Budget Surplus

Britain Expects Further Increase At End Of Fiscal Year

London.—Another increase in the current surplus was recorded, with the end of the fiscal year only 11 days away, bolstering the expectation of a budget surplus of around $150,000,000.

Latest figures, those for last week, showed revenue exceeded expenditures $34,000,000, bringing the current surplus to $110,000,000, after including the United States War Debt fund and sinking fund payments, which were not provided for in the budget a year ago.

The current surplus of $110,000,000 compares with a current deficit of $200,000,000 at this date a year ago.

Train Wreck In Russia

Thirty-Three Persons Are Reported Killed And Sixty-Eight Injured

Moscow.—Thirty-three persons were killed and 68 injured in the wreck of two trains near Sverdlovsk. The wreck occurred nine days ago, but word of it did not become public here until recently.

Despatches said a local passenger train, travelling at high speed, ran through a closed semaphore at Tavatul, and collided with a freight train.

The responsible employees are already on trial. This is the fourth such catastrophe reported within a month.

Next Step Is Recovery

Hamilton, Ont.—"This country has fought economic depression with courage and fortitude, the next great development is recovery," said Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, addressing the Hamilton, Brantford and district branches of the Canadian Manufacturers Association here.

The First Man was a Gardener.

Articles on Spring and the flowers which go with it contain some interesting reading (including the flowery language). Here's an item from a book which tells you, you should be an amateur gardener, and continues:

Gardening is a getaway from the mechanical routine of the office and workshop, which affords to everybody a wealth of material to satisfy their creative instinct in the healthful and pleasant open air. In this book," and so on.

And this:

When Spring unlocks the flowers to paint the laughing soil, the thoughts of old and young are occupied with gardens. Flowers glorify the home; with their rich tints they cast a rainbow of beauty over the commonplace. Love of flowers finds its expression in the old-fashioned garden, the sunken gardens of the rich, the rock garden, the small kitchen garden of the humble.

Here's one about "the cool oases of color and perfume":

Too often the cultivation of flowers is handled in a haphazard manner. Now, numerous books and periodicals by enthusiasts and practical specialists enable all to create about their homes cool oases of color and perfume. Unightly walls and fences can be made to take on a picturesque fineness by means of ivy and climbing roses, or ornamental annuals and perennials brought to charming maturity.

Here's another, with a touch of ancient history:

According to Genesis, after the creation of man: "The Lord God planted a garden eastward in Eden; and there he put the man whom he had formed." Thus the first man became a gardener, and down the ages gardens have been cultivated for pleasure and profit," etc.

This one mentions weeds:

For success in gardening a degree of study is essential. Flowers, like human beings, have their enemies—weeds try to choke them, caterpillars prey on their tender leaves. In gardening it is necessary to be over on the watch, and without guides, disappointment may be the lot of the amateur gardener and homemaker: but with a simple and authoritative work such as" etc. etc.

WIFE'S DELIGHT AT HUSBAND'S LOSS

30 Pounds of Fat!

Here is something all wives of fat men will be glad to know. It is the experience of a woman who has been recently weighed 230 lbs. She writes:—

"I really feel I must write and tell you that, after taking Kruschen Salt for nearly 3 months, my husband has got his weight down from 230 lbs. to 200 lbs. This has been achieved by nothing else but Kruschen. I am too heavy also, and I started taking Kruschen only three weeks ago. Already I have got down from 153 lbs. to 144 lbs. We are delighted."—(Mrs. C.)

Kruschen combats the cause of fat by assisting the internal organs to perform their functions properly—to throw off each day those waste products and poisons which, if allowed to accumulate, will be converted by the body's chemistry into fatty tissue.

OCCASIONAL WIFE

By EDNA ROSS WEBSTER

Author of "Joretta," "Lipstick Girl," etc.

SYNOPSIS

Camilla Hoyt and Peter Anson, young and in love, marry, deciding to live their own lives apart until Peter is able to provide for her. Peter is a young, struggling sculptor trying to win a competition for a scholarship abroad and Camilla is the adopted daughter of a wealthy family. She is not to inherit money when she comes of age and so is studying commercial art in the hope of landing an agency job. Others in the story are Avis Werth, another wealthy girl who is trying to win Peter, Sylvia Todd, Peter's model, and Gus Matson, his former roommate with whom he has quarrelled. At a party at an exclusive club Peter entertains Camilla's guests with impersonations. When the rest of the members of the party go to a cabaret to continue the gaiety, Peter and Camilla slip off to the beach by themselves and fall asleep on the sand. When they awake it is early morning and Avis and another boy are standing near them. This makes it necessary for Camilla to announce before the party that she and Peter are married. Bowman and Weeks, an advertising agency, where Camilla has secured a position, send her a new account which requires unusual treatment of juvenile art. To Camilla's surprise she learns that the account is that of her foster father's company, which has decided on an extensive campaign to bolster its lagging business. The critics were enthusiastic about her work, and Mr. Weeks offers her a salary of $50.00 a week to start and a prospect of having it doubled. She goes to keep a dinner engagement with Peter. She tells Peter of her good fortune in securing employment. Mrs. Hoyt is also informed that Camilla has obtained work and is going to leave the Hoyt household. Avis

Werth rents a studio on the same floor as Peter, and invites him to have lunch there. He accepts reluctantly, but is favorably impressed with his visit.

(Now Go On With The Story.)

CHAPTER XXXVI.

In the meantime, Camilla was absorbed with her new work. She lived with, by and for it. She sketched and planned at the office all day, was on the alert for new ideas and characteristics in her public contacts. She visited her Tiny Tot in their amusing exploits while she followed Peter's patient instructions regarding her share of the household tasks, went to sleep with them in her thoughts.

Of course, she thought about Peter, too; the thoughts squeezed in deliciously with the crowding, peremptory ones that demanded most of her attention, much as Peter's thoughts of Camilla trespassed into his working hours.

She saw him occasionally, too, but not as often as formerly. It would not always be like that, they told themselves and each other, with blithe words and wistful hearts. Just now, the paramount issue for each of them was to make a temporary success which would develop a greater future.

Camilla believed that if she made good in the first months of the Wheatheart Cereal campaign, the future would smooth itself out into days less arduous and anxious, when she might devote much more of herself and her time to Peter. The first terms of their marriage plans had been that nothing should interfere with their individual ambitions. Those terms were unequivocal and each adhered bravely to them, even though the effort cost them incalculable hours of loneliness and longing. But, as every plan has its salient advantages, it has its weaknesses also. It never occurred to either of them that the very stimulus of human companionship and relaxation of leisure hours which they were denying themselves in the satisfaction of each other, they were absorbing from others in gratifying.

While Camilla thought that she was contributing more inspiration to Peter's work by leaving him alone; and he believed that because he could not take care of her, he had no right to expect her to share his meager, anxious existence, had they only been as wise as they believed they were, she would have realized that nothing could have contributed so richly to his inspiration as herself, and he would have known that, loving her as she did, her constant anxious hour of his life that she did not share was a precious jewel lost somewhere along the way to regret.

The first cloud of discord between them appeared on the horizon when she had been working at the office for a month and was gaining confidence in herself rapidly. She had arrived at the studio one Sunday afternoon earlier than Peter had expected her, and found him working on a large color advertisement for a transportation company. Her relations were due not so much to the fact that he was doing the work, but to her surprise that he had said nothing to her about it and seemed reluctant even then to tell her about it.

He had kissed her rather perfunctorily in greeting and hastened to dispose of his work. Usually, he proceeded with whatever he was doing when she interrupted him.

"Did I disturb you by coming in early?" She was contrite. "I'm sorry. It was such a glorious afternoon and I wasn't doing another thing to do in the apartment—oh, I am getting to be a very efficient housekeeper and I just couldn't wait longer to see you," she confessed finally.

"That's more like it," Peter laughed, clapping her to him suddenly and looking down into her deep eyes, tenderly. "Of course, your coming earlier doesn't disturb my work. It does me, though. You are more lovely every time I see you, and that isn't often enough, precious. I was only trying to keep busy as the time would pass more quickly until you came. How's everything?"

"Wonderful, Peter. I'm sure my work is going over big—I just have a hunch it is, because I'm so happy over it. I guess. I am happier every day." Her face glowed with a reflection of her felicity.

As if a chill had suddenly cooled his ardor, Peter's eyes grew somber and a mask of gravity dropped down over his face. His words seemed to Camilla to come suddenly from far away. "The less you see of me, the happier you are." He laughed a little, but it was a worthless attempt to conceal the bitterness of the jealous male who is helpless to defend himself against a woman who is always both unreasoning and unreasonable.

Peter drew away and began to gather up his working materials from the table with swift movements. Camilla wondered frantically if she only imagined the sudden change in his manner. She made a desperate effort to sound casual when she asked, taking off her hat and jacket, "What's this you are doing now?"

"Oh, nothing much," evasively.

"Something new, isn't it?" She approached the table and saw that the huge card was a soft-tone photograph of a terminal wall Peter had been tiling with water colors. Camilla looked up at him inquiringly. He flushed slightly and did not meet her eyes. "Oh, you will say it's kindergarten stuff compared with your advertising copy. I wasn't going to show it to you. I'm only doing it for the cake so I can hold out with my work for the rest of the month."

"Why, of course—why shouldn't you do it, if you can spare the time? It looks fine—for what it is."

"For what it is," he agreed tonelessly.

"Why, Peter, what's the matter with you?"

"Oh," impatiently, "it tears me to pieces to have to brag like that for a little money. It isn't that I mind the work or anxiety. But the effort, for that matter. Only I have to have my dignity—if any—by staying in the art line—if by any contention of the imagination anyone could call that art." She knew that his bitter impatience was a culmination of change and anxiety. But the effort which she made to soothe his resentment was like touching a match to a fuse.

"Oh, Peter, it's a rotten shame that you have to humiliate your own pride and sacrifice your precious time for the sake of a few paltry dollars, while some people have so much wealth they can't even think up ways to use a fraction of it."

"No use to talk about that. The world's been like that ever since it was started long enough for some to get ahead in the race. Those in the lead are the lucky ones or victims of circumstances one way or another. They're carrying too much lead or got a bad break. Some will catch up in time, some of the leaders get behind; but they can't all come in first, or even second or third."

"I know, but even a thoroughbred needs a fair chance. Too much of the time, the race is 'fixed.'"

"Sometimes I feel that way, too, but I'm going to keep up the pace until I reach the tape and find out."

"Of course you will—and you may be the one to break it." She smiled encouragement and stroked his cheek fondly. He had dropped into a chair and pulled her down beside him as they often sat while they talked.

"But there is so much lack of balance and futile waste of talent," she continued. "I was just thinking of the time Mother Hoyt was at her wits' end to know what to give dad for his birthday. Not that she particularly desired to give him anything, but it was one of her pet customs to remember the universe with impressive and appropriate gifts. He had everything and more than he needed. But she finally hit upon the idea of a gold keychain."

"I went with her to the jeweler's when she bought it, and remember that I thought it was silly to pay so much for something that looked no better than the average metal keychain, though I was quite young then. It cost a hundred dollars, but that was only the beginning of the idea. She had his keys copied in solid gold so go with it and each of them engraved with his monogram. I believe the whole thing cost the trifling sum of five or six hundred dollars."

"Did he like it?" amused.

"He had to seem appreciative. But I'll bet he never used his keys again without thinking how many boxes

MAGIC BAKING POWDER costs so little—and it gives consistently better baking results. Actually less than 1/2 worth of this fine-quality baking powder makes a good cake. It doesn't pay to take chances with inferior baking powder. Bake with Magic and be sure!

of Wheatheart Cereal profit they represented.

"Well, you have to consider that from another viewpoint, too," he conceded. "I'll bet that jeweler, and the locksmith, who made the keys, and the metallurgists and all the workmen involved on down the line were thankful for her extravagant whim. Maybe there was even a poor, struggling sculptor somewhere along the line who profited a little by the transaction, indirectly. That's what wealth is for, to keep the ball rolling along so everyone can have a grab at it. That's what most of the trouble is now. Too many people have stopped playing the game and are waiting for the other fellow to begin while they watch from the sidelines."

"I'm glad you gave me the idea that the gold keychain might have done someone good, after all. I never thought of it that way."

"Sure—like the fellow down the street here who runs the little flower shop. He was telling me yesterday that he used to count big on orders for the patients in the hospital across the park, but lots of those orders are killed now because someone got the idea that flowers were an extravagant luxury in the depression. They think they are being noble to refuse to accept flowers and have the money added to charity funds. Clubs, societies and individuals are taking it up. And where does that get 'em? More charity for the shiftless and less work for people who want to make an honest living! Funny how minds follow the leader blindly, like sheep. No matter what kind of a silly idea jumps over the fence, a whole flock follows."

"But don't you think that's rather sweet to know that the money which might have bought flowers for you that you don't need, is feeding some poor child?"

"No, I don't. Look here, what good does that do if the kid's father had been driving a truck for a florist and lost his job because everybody quit buying flowers? Not only the driver is involved, either. There's the florist and his employees, the grocers and their gardeners, the seedsmen, the flower box manufacturers—it's endless. Suppose I worked in a flower shop or a greenhouse to get by while I'm studying. I've done almost everything. It's all the same principle."

Camilla mused. "Why, that's right. I never thought of it that way before. No wonder the world gets mixed up every so often. It's an awful tangle, isn't it?"

"It's a million tangles all snarled up."

So far, the discussion had been impersonal enough, but it was Camilla's next remark that caused the spark.

Prince Weds Commoner

Grandson of Swedish King Gives Up Royal Rights

A romance like a fairy tale of fiction came true with the wedding of Sigvard, Prince of Sweden, Duke of Uppland and grandson of the Swedish king, to the beautiful Fraulien Erika Patzek, 22-year-old daughter of a Berlin industrialist.

The 20-year-old prince—like Lenart, his cousin—abandoned his princely rights for a romantic union with the German actress.

They were married in the large council chamber of Caxton hall, instead of in the small registry office, despite the fact a municipal election was being held in the building.

A Litter of Twenty.

For the past few years a pig was just something to cuss at when it squealed, and to give a kick in the slats to when it got in the way. But pigs are getting back now to the stage where they are dignified by being called Swine, and this puts a mamma swine on the farm of Edgar Mann at Headingley in a class of her own. She presented her owner with a litter of 20. There is no information as to whether the matron has a Yorkshire dialect or whether she is a brunnet from the Berkshire hills—but she sure is some now.
